
1 Cullykhan – This Ironage promontory fort was also the site of a gun battery set up by the Laird of Troup in the Napoleonic wars to protect Pennan Harbour. A visit to the sheltered beach is recommended as this gives access to a huge sea cave that cuts through the cliff.

2 Pennan – Once the haunt of smugglers it was more recently the location for the film 'Local Hero'. The cliffs to the east were quarried for millstones that were moved by teams of horses pulling each millstone on a single axel.

3 St Dorstan's Church – Ruined 16th Century church with interesting tombs in the graveyard. Note the tiny Doocote in the garden of the former manse (1822).
