

The Formartine & Buchan Way

Auchnagatt to Maud

4.5 miles

Walking, Cycling & Horse-riding

Directions

Access to the route is found on either side of the A948 running through the centre of the village and the route is well signposted.

This section of the route is easily accessed for wheelchair users and individuals with limited ability.

Maud, previously known as Brucklay, is a charming small village, which at one time was the junction for the Fraserburgh and Peterhead lines. The Station still remains to this day and hosts the Formartine & Buchan Railway Museum. The museum is only open in summer so be sure to check opening times before you travel.

Hints and Tips

- Watch out for the Common Blue Butterfly on the Bird's Foot Trefoil.
- Take your binoculars and spot some interesting native bird species such as the Peregrine Falcon, Willow Warbler and Wren.
- Enjoy some of the stunning scenery surrounding Maud.
- The Station Hotel, Maud is an ideal place to stop over if you want to complete a large section of the route. Enjoy a warm Scottish welcome.

Common blue butterfly

The Formartine & Buchan Way

Auchnagatt to Maud

4.5 miles

Based on Ordnance Survey mapping. © Crown copyright reserved. Aberdeenshire Council, 0100020767 (2010).